Words of Encouragement

By James Cunniffe

An English teacher (Alex?) wrote the words, 'a woman without her man is nothing' on the blackboard and asked the students to punctuate it correctly.

The men wrote: 'A woman, without her man, is nothing.'

The women wrote: 'A woman: without her, man is nothing.'

This shows it matters where you put your commas!

I recently came across this in a church magazine which I think applies to us all:

Our forefathers built these ancient churches in Pastrow and maintained them with care and devotion. They are now our heritage and responsibility. Their maintenance and repair, and the work and worship centred on them are dependent on us. Let us give thanks for all that these wonderful churches have meant for the villages and pray for ourselves that we may continue the witness for Christ in these holy places.
