

Reflection: Baptism and Creation

If anyone is in Christ, he is a new creation; the old has passed away, behold, the new has come (2 Cor 5:17). There is no doubt that baptism marks the beginning of something new – but what is this and how important is it really?

The writings of the New Testament suggest that the baptism of believers was a response to the command of Jesus and that it was practised in the Church from the very beginning. At the end of Matthew's Gospel, Jesus appears to the disciples and says:

"All authority in heaven and on earth has been given to me. Go therefore and make disciples of all nations, baptising them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, teaching them to observe all that I have commanded you; and lo, I am with you always, to the close of the age" (Matt 28:18-20). Jesus, speaking with authority, passes to his followers the mission of making disciples of all the nations. Matthew's gospel is explicit that they are to do this by teaching and baptising in the name of God who is Father, Son and Spirit. The Acts of the Apostles contains many accounts of baptism as the entry to the life of the Church. The New Testament letters, especially those of St Paul, contain much reflection and teaching on the meaning of Baptism. When we look at these we can see that the mystery of Baptism is understood in at least five ways:

Union with Christ - Paul understands baptism as a profound identification with Christ, dying with him so as to share life with him. Baptism is thus the most significant happening in the life of a Christian: the beginning of a new and eternal life.

New birth as beloved sons and daughters of God - Our identification with Christ in Baptism brings us into the same relationship with God as he enjoyed.

Incorporation into the Church - We form a visible community or family of faith which is both local and universal, that is, it stretches back in time to the apostles and forward to the end of history and exists throughout the world.

Forgiveness of sins - In Baptism, sin is forgiven, grace prevails and the possibility of living in union with Christ is realised.

Gift of the Holy Spirit - Through the action of the Holy Spirit we have the capacity to live, with love, joy and peace.

How do you reflect on this definition of baptism?
