

The Pastrow Benefice

Sharing the love, grace and truth of Jesus Christ

Wedding Information Pack

Introduction

It won't be long before you are both standing in one of our churches on one of the most momentous days of your lives. What follows in this wedding pack are some thoughts and suggestions, which I hope you will find helpful. Please ask your church wedding co-ordinator if there is anything you are uncertain about.

If there is a key to a good marriage, it is good communication, making time to share your thoughts and hopes, and talking over the events of the day. There is no time like the present to build upon this; for the better you know each other and understand yourselves, the firmer the foundations of your marriage.

You have chosen to come to church to ask for God's blessing as you start your married life. On your wedding day you will enter into a new chapter of your relationship with each other and with God. Just as communication is an invaluable key to a successful marriage, so it is to a living faith in God.

Through prayer, worship with other Christians, and reading the Bible, you can keep in touch with God. We here at Pastrow Benefice we will be only too delighted to help you with any of this, and there are courses that we run for any who wish to explore the Christian faith further.

You will always be welcome, and I pray you will find in our churches a special and spiritual home for years to come.

Every blessing for the days ahead.

Why should we be married in church?

This is certainly a question you should have considered carefully. There are many places where you can choose to be married now: a Registry Office, a hotel set in beautiful grounds or on a Caribbean beach.

By choosing to be married in one of the Pastrow Benefice Churches, you have chosen to be married in the House of God and you will be making your promises to share in each other's lives. You have chosen to pledge yourselves to each other not only publicly before your friends and family, but also before your loving Father in heaven. You are asking for His blessing and help with your married life.

Do I have to be baptised before I can be married in Church?

Ideally both of you should have been baptised. The promises that you make to each other are made in church (God's house here on earth), in His holy name and before Him. It makes sense then, that you have an understanding and belief in Him, and in the significance of the undertaking you are about to give.

At least one of you should have undergone a Christian baptism (or Christening) before you may be married in church. You do not have to have been baptised in a Church of England Church; baptism is a sacrament recognised across Christian Churches. Anglicans (or members of the Church of England) can be baptised as infants or adults. If neither of you is baptised, then please speak with the Vicar as soon as you can.

Some Practical Questions People Ask

Are divorced people permitted to be married in church?

Until recently, we were permitted only to bless the marriages of divorced people. Now the Church accepts that in exceptional circumstances a divorced person may marry again in church during the lifetime of a former spouse. The following criteria contain a minimum requirement that must be met:

- Any previous marriage must have been dissolved and the divorced person (s) must show the Vicar their decree absolute paperwork.
- The couple should clearly understand the purpose and meaning of marriage (i.e. that it should be faithful and lifelong).
- They should have come to terms with the breakdown of the previous marriage and should show sufficient readiness to enter wholeheartedly into the new relationship, with evidence of repentance, forgiveness and generosity of spirit regarding the previous relationship.
- Adequate provision must have been made for any children and for the former spouse.
- A reasonable time should have elapsed since the divorce; the further the divorce lies in the past, the less possibility there is of any personal issues being carried into the new relationship.
- The new marriage should not be such as to give rise to hostile public comment or scandal.
- The relationship between the applicants should not have been a direct cause of the breakdown of the former marriage.
- Neither of the partners should have been married and divorced more than once.
- There should be evidence of receptiveness to the Christian faith.

The law allows the Vicar freedom of conscience whether or not to marry a person with a former partner still living. Where the Vicar is not prepared to do so, couples will need to respect that decision.

My divorce is going through at the moment. I want to get married as soon as possible. Can I make the arrangements now?

Unfortunately, no. We are not permitted to make arrangements for a marriage if either of the couple is still legally married to another person. You must have your decree absolute paperwork and show it to the Vicar before we can get involved with any arrangements.

We have children, does that have any effect on what we need to do?

If the couple to be married have children, they must re-register their children's births at the local Registry Office after the marriage has taken place. Failure to do so will contravene the law and could cause problems with the child(ren)'s inheritance rights. This does not affect children from a previous relationship. Please contact the Registrar on 0300 555 1392 if you are unsure.

What are Banns?

Banns of Marriage are a legal preliminary. They are a public declaration of your intention to marry, in effect you are letting people know that you plan to get married. It is also an opportunity for others to state any reasons why two people should not be legally married (because, for example, they may be related or already married).

Do we need to do anything?

You need to complete a Banns of Marriage Application Form. We then record the details in the Banns Register and publish them at the appropriate time. The Banns of Marriage Application Form is the same form from which we take the details to complete your Register entry and Marriage Certificate.

When are Banns Published?

We publish Banns of Marriage at the principal service, usually on the first three Sundays of the month, two months before the marriage date. They can be published any time during the three months leading up to the marriage date.

Do we need to be there when they are published?

Although there is no obligation to come and hear your Banns being called, it would be great to see you! Most couples, with their family and friends, enjoy hearing their Banns called.

What happens if either of us lives outside the Parish Boundaries?

Your Banns must be called in the Parish where you live and in the Parish where you are going to be married. This could mean your Banns will have to be called in two or even three churches.

Who arranges for the Banns to be called in another Parish?

You do. You must go to your own Parish Church and complete a Banns of Marriage Application Form for them to use and there will be an administration charge. Banns are only valid for 90 days, so please allow plenty of time for your Banns to be read in your home parish.

How will the priest be sure that the Banns have been called, where necessary, in another parish?

After your Banns have been called in your home parish, you will need to collect from them a Banns Certificate. This must be given to the Vicar who is to marry you before your marriage date. He/she cannot conduct your service without it.

What are we signing when we sign the Wedding Register?

At the end of the marriage service the couple and two witnesses will go into the side chapel and sign the Wedding Registers. This is a legal record that the marriage has taken place. Copies of the entries go to the Andover Registry Office where they will be kept as a permanent record. The actual church registers, once a book is complete, will eventually be stored in the Hampshire Registry Office in Winchester. The information on the Wedding Register is supplied by you on the Banns of Marriage Application Form. It is very important that we complete it accurately. If you have any queries, please do ask.

Who can sign the Wedding Register as a Witness?

Anyone, other than the Vicar, who has been present throughout the service. Usually it is two people from the bridal party, perhaps fathers, mothers, best man or chief bridesmaid. Witnesses should be over 18 years of age.

What is the Marriage Certificate for?

This is your copy of the entry in the Wedding Register. It will be handed to you after the ceremony, so do keep it safe. A further copy may be obtained if you lose the original, however, a charge will be made.

When do we need to pay our fees?

All fees must be paid, at the very latest 4 weeks before your wedding day. You can pay everything by Bank Transfer (details from the office), or by cheque to the individual PCC of the church where you are to be married. It is also possible to pay by instalments. Details of costs are given on a pro-forma invoice 8 weeks before your wedding day. Wedding fees are subject to change each year, and are set by the Church of England.

ORDER OF SERVICE

Many couples like to have an Order of Service printed for the wedding, for guests to use during the Service and as a keepsake of the day. Whilst it is quite a useful item, it is not essential, and either a home produced or a professionally printed Order of Service is acceptable. However, please do show your final draft to the Vicar who is to conduct your service, BEFORE it is printed.

We do have a number of examples of Orders of Service available.

CHOOSING A READING FOR YOUR WEDDING

The wedding service normally has a Bible reading, which is chosen from a wide range of topics such as love, commitment and the best foundations for living. Some deal more specifically with the love of God and the example Jesus gave us. This booklet gives a number of readings that are suitable for a wedding.

Select one or two likely readings, read them and then ask yourself these questions:

- Which of the readings makes most sense to me?
- Are there words or phrases in some of the readings that I particularly like?
- Which of the readings reflects best what I hope for in marriage?
- Which of the readings do I find most difficult to understand? (Ask your Vicar)

The Vicar will help you to decide on a reading that fits in with your service.

Find the following passages in a Bible, read them and think about what they are saying to you. (Remember to use a translation that you are comfortable with: The King James Bible uses older traditional words, whereas the New International Version uses more modern language, for example).

Genesis 2:18-25

This early story tells of our human need to share life with other people.

John 2:1-11

This is an account of how Jesus went with His mother and friends to a wedding and gave some miraculous assistance when all the wine had been drunk before the end of the feast.

I Corinthians 13:1-13

Although he is talking about love in a broader sense than marriage, this well-known passage from St. Paul's letter to his Christian friends is often read at weddings.

Ephesians 5:21-33

St. Paul compares the marriage bond to the bond between Jesus and His followers, the Church.

Matthew 7:21, 24-27

Jesus tells a story about two men who built their homes in different places on different foundations, to show how important the right foundation is for our lives.

The Pastrow Benefice

Sharing the love, grace and truth of Jesus Christ

Mark 10:6-9

Marriages broke down and men easily divorced their wives in Jesus' time. Jesus reminds people of God's intention that every marriage should become an unbreakable bond.

Colossians 3:12-17

St. Paul describes how important it is for Jesus to be at the centre of everything we do.

John 15:9-12

Jesus tells His disciples about love and the need for us to love one another.

Romans 12:1-2, 9-13

St. Paul describes how love changes us and helps us in the practical things of daily life.

I John 4:7-12

St. John shows that God is love, and that because of God's love for us we too should love one another.

Ephesians 3:14-21

In this passage St. Paul prays that his readers should know the love of Christ at the very foundation of their lives.

Genesis 1:26-28, 31

The story of how God created men and women and the institution of marriage.

CHOOSING MUSIC FOR YOUR WEDDING

The marriage service is an act of worship, and in particular a time to thank God for bringing you together as a couple, asking Him to bless your marriage in the future.

Usually two or three hymns (or songs) are sung in the service.

- The opening hymn will often say something of the love of God.
- The middle hymn may be a quieter one about prayer.
- The third may be a hymn of celebration.

This pattern may help you decide which hymns to have and at what stages in the service.

Usually, there are three times in the service when instrumental music is required.

- When the bride makes her entrance to the church.
- During the signing of the register.
- When the couple leave the church.

Choosing Hymns and Songs

These are the questions the Organist may want to discuss with you:

- How many hymns are you having?
- At what stage in the service will they be sung?
- Are the hymns that you want sufficiently well known for people to join in?
- Do the hymns say the things you want?
- Have you agreed with the Organist which tunes you are having for the hymns?
(Some couples could be upset if their favourite hymn is sung to the wrong tune).

CHOOSING INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC

These are the questions the Organist may want to discuss with you:

- Which music would you like whilst the bride enters the church?
- Do you want to come in to a loud or quiet piece of music?
- How long does the piece have to last? (Think about how long it will take you to walk to the front of the church with bridesmaids and pageboys).
- Can the Organist play the pieces you want? (If he does not have a copy of the music, you will probably have to supply it).
- It is customary for your chosen church for music to be played while the register is being signed, so what would you choose?
- Do you wish to make use of the singers or music group to help with the music during the service?

Make sure that you come to your decision on what music to have based on the advice you will get from the Vicar and the Organist.
